1 EXT. A STREET - DAY (D1)

1

The VORTEX FORMS, a familiar sight, or perhaps not. This wormhole is different. It appears sickly. The maw is misshapen. It fluctuates in size then spits QUINN onto the pavement.

Even his landing is not the norm, seemingly more violent and perhaps more painful. Quinn does a shoulder roll and comes to a stop. His head snaps around. His expression tells us there is indeed something wrong as he looks back at the...

2 WORMHOLE OPENING

2

It THROBS, SPUTTERS, then careens off into the air like an out of control fire hose. In a second it is gone.

3 ON QUINN

3

As he looks on, astonished. He turns to the others.

QUINN
Did you see that?

But there are no others. Quinn is alone. He moves off up the street.

QUINN
(calling out)
Remmy... Colin... Maggie...!

A chilling silence.

QUINN
(sotto)
What's going on here?

Quinn checks the timer.

4 ON TIMER

As it counts down -- two hours fifty-four minutes and counting.

5 EXT. ALLEY - DAY

A dense cloud of litter whips through air, carried by the torrents and familiar WHOOSH of the wormhole.

We hear a THUD. A pile of litter stirs.

COLIN
(pained, under trash)
You know, brother, it occurs to me that if we threw a large mattress...

COLIN emerges from beneath it. He's wearing a plain, dark blue shirt and slacks.

COLIN
...through the wormhole ahead of us, it might not hurt so much to land.
(dusts himself off)
Of course, we might miss the mattress.

He notices he is alone.

COLIN
Hello?

He stands and takes in his new milieu, puzzled, then...

Nothing. What's going on? He starts up the street.

COLIN
Quinn. Maggie. Rembrandt!

6 EXT. STREET - DAY

As Colin rounds a corner. Three homeless people are seated around a fifty-five gallon drum. On top of the drum, a big screen TV. A slightly dented, but operational, satellite dish provides the reception.

Colin cautiously crosses to the group. A slick announcer is on the TV screen. We'll get to know him as BARRY LIPSCHITZ.

LIPSCHITZ
Yes, folks, thanks to you,
Lipschitz Live is now the most watched show in the history of television. Beamed to our armed forces abroad, to our research teams at the South Pole, to the hard-working guys aboard the crippled Space Station Mir, Lipschitz Live sets the pace for our world today.

COLIN
Excuse me...

No response. They are transfixed. (The "Lipschitz" promotion continues as voice-over under the following.) Colin inches his way between the homeless people and the TV screen.

COLIN
Pardon me, I was wondering if you

As soon as Colin blocks their view, the homeless people shower him with a hail of trash. Colin ducks and moves away. He looks back at the homeless people, shakes his head and walks away.

Maggie and Remmy continue to cling tight to each other.

REMBRANDT

MAGGIE
Save it, he's not even here!

REMBRANDT

MAGGIE
Will you hold steady! I'm going to Maggie manages to climb up the length of Rembrandt's leg. She works her way up his back, onto his shoulders then onto the rig. She then helps him climb to safety. Rembrandt peers back over the edge, down at their averted calamity.

REMBRANDT
Sweet Mary and Joseph. We must be

CUT TO

11 EXT. CITY STREET - DAY 11

With Quinn. Seems at first like a normal L.A. street. But as Quinn walks along, he notices that there seem to be television sets everywhere. At a crosswalk, instead of a streetlight on a pole, there is a television set. People waiting on a bench for a bus watch a small set on an adjustable stand attached to the bench. Storefronts, no matter what other merchandise is for sale, all feature TV sets.

12 A STOREFRONT 12

as Quinn stops for a moment to watch a set along with two or three other people.

13 ANGLE ON SET

13

Lipschitz is on camera.

LIPSCHITZ

All week on 'Lipschitz' we'll be investigating the paranormal. Aliens from somewhere 'out there'; folks like you and me who claim to have been abducted; out of body travelers, remote viewers, a man who claims to be the reincarnation of Nostradamus, but says he doesn't remember predicting anything.

reacts to this message and notices that the other people on the sidewalk are absolutely transfixed by this guy, almost hypnotized. Quinn moves away, heading for the Chandler.

15 EXT. STREET - FRONT OF CHANDLER HOTEL

15

In this world, the front of the Chandler, above the marquee entrance, is a huge television screen (think Blade Runner), and on this screen at all times is Lipschitz Live. We can't hear him, but we can see Barry Lipschitz pontificating, waving his arms. Quinn crosses to the hotel.

16 INT. CHANDLER HOTEL - LOBBY - DAY

Quinn ENTERS. This version of The Chandler is upscale, well-dressed folks in the lobby. We also begin to see the decorations for a wedding going up. Quinn approaches the check-in desk where...

THE CHANDLER WELCOMES INFINICORP AND MILLENIAMEDIA TO THE 1997 WORLD TELEVISION CORPORATE SUMMIT. CASH BAR.

Then I'd like to leave a message for some friends. QUINN

Do you have a room? GOMEZ

(grits teeth)
Not according to you. QUINN

Then you can't leave a message. GOMEZ

Why not? QUINN

We're a full-service hotel, but only for guests. No guest, no service. GOMEZ

Gomez turns back to the television.

Look, I have an agreement to meet up with some people here whenever we get separated. It's important. QUINN

No response. Gomez's gaze is locked on the tube.

Fine, I'll be in the bar if you

Quinn moseys up to the bar. He goes unnoticed by the BARTENDER who is also riveted to the TV. Quinn checks his pockets. He pulls out two wrinkled one dollar bills. He sees...

The Bartender's tip jar. Quinn compares his money to the tips already in the jar. They match.

QUINN

How 'bout a beer. Whatever is cheap.

Quinn pulls out the timer and looks it over. He tenses.

Barry Lipschitz apparently does the news, too.

LIPSCHITZ
The Senator, while denying he was drunk, could not explain his nudity.

The Bartender serves up the beer, never breaking his lock on the television.

QUINN

People seem to like this guy.

BARTENDER
Are you kidding? Barry Lipschitz rules. His show is the only show.

QUINN

Yeah.

BARTENDER

That's the trouble with you kids today. You don't watch enough television. How are you gonna keep informed about what's going on in the world?

(then, re: the beer)

That'll be two bucks for the beer and fifteen for the drinker's insurance.

Quinn balks. He's short. Thinking quickly...

QUINN

Uh, charge it to Milleniamedia.

Without flinching, the Bartender punches a number on a key pad and turns back to his TV. That was easy, then...

QUINN

Got a menu?

MAGGIE
This will take forever. Can you

Remmy hits the switch. The scaffold stops.

REMBRANDT
Be crazy to label these switches, I guess.

As he checks it out, Maggie looks over the side to the ground.

MAGGIE
Do you suppose the others made it through?

REMBRANDT
Who can tell? That whole trip was like no slide we've ever had.

MAGGIE
Have you ever been split up before?

REMBRANDT
Not like this. Only one other time was there a problem. And that was only because the wormhole was struck by lightning.

Maggie reacts to something she sees on the ground.

MAGGIE
Hey!

27 MAGGIE'S POINT OF VIEW - ANGLE ON THE GROUND

30 INT. THE CHANDLER HOTEL - BAR - DAY 30

A large plate piled high with the remains of a major lobster dinner sits before Quinn. Beside it is the timer and a cocktail napkin with a mathematical formula scribbled on it. Quinn is engrossed in the figures. He pauses, checks the timer and sighs.

The TIMER READS ninety-three minutes.

Quinn is getting nervous. He stands and crosses to the lobby entrance. He looks around. No sign of the others. Dejected, he sits and returns to his notes.

The Bartender plants another beer on the bar. He sees the timer.

BARTENDER
Say, that's a mean looking clicker you got there.

QUINN
Excuse me?

The Bartender retrieves a TV remote from under the bar. This thing has about fifty buttons, sleek, bright red, it looks like something out of the Star Trek prop department.

BARTENDER
Get a load of this baby. Control capabilities include TV, VCR, DVD, LD, switchable between IR and EM bands at wide or narrow beam settings at unlimited range.

QUINN
Your clicker is definitely bigger than my clicker. And I say that without a trace of male envy.

30A INT. CHANDLER HOTEL - FRONT DESK - DAY

30A

Maggie and Rembrandt approach the desk. Gomez is still there, still glued to his television.

Excuse me.... MAGGIE

Gomez doesn't react.

Hey.... REMBRANDT

Gomez turns to them annoyed.

GOMEZ
Can't you see I'm in the middle of my show?

REMBRANDT
Sorry, thought you worked here.

GOMEZ
(insulted)
I do.

MAGGIE
We'd like a room.

GOMEZ
Who wouldn't?

REMBRANDT
A suite would be better.

GOMEZ
Sold out.

MAGGIE
Sold out? You're never sold out.

GOMEZ
People keep saying that, but we are. No rooms, no suites, and we're running short of ice.

Maggie and Remmy think for a moment.

REMBRANDT
Actually, we're looking for friends.

GOMEZ
Who isn't?

MAGGIE
They may already have checked in. Do you have a Quinn Mallory?

Gomez, keeping one eye on his TV set, reluctantly turns and checks a computer file of registered guests.

GOMEZ

No...

We've got a Colin Mallory. Room 412. You can call him on the house phone right over there.

Gomez points off, then turns back to his TV.

MAGGIE

Thanks for....
(noticing that Gomez is in another world)
Whatever.

Maggie and Remmy start for the elevators.

30B INT. CHANDLER HOTEL - CORRIDOR - DAY

30B

Maggie and Rembrandt come down the corridor to Room 412. Maggie knocks. No answer. Rembrandt jiggles the knob, putting pressure on the door. He screws up his face in concentration.

REMBRANDT

In most worlds, this lock tends to be a little...Aha....

The lock gives and the door opens. As they enter....

REMBRANDT

Just got to hold your mouth right.

MAGGIE

Give us enough slides and we'll all be master burglars.

30C INT. HOTEL ROOM - CONTINUOUS

30C

Maggie and Remmy enter and look around. An open suitcase is on the bed. A big screen TV in a corner is running the ever-present Lipschitz Live. There are also mini-TVs on either side of the bed, showing the same program.

MAGGIE

Colin...? Hello...? Any Mallorys home?

Rembrandt looks into the bathroom. Turns back and shakes his head. Nobody home.

Nobody seems to do anything but watch this guy Lipschitz.

Remmy has crossed to look at the suitcase.

REMBRANDT
Did Colin have a suitcase?

MAGGIE
Not that I remember.

She moves to look at the case, noticing a C. M. monogram.

REMBRANDT
He must have just bought it.

MAGGIE
How'd he have time to get it monogrammed? And this is expensive. Did he have that much money?

Remmy looks through the contents of the case: loud shirts.

REMBRANDT
He's keeping up his taste for high-volume outfits.

He finds a couple of liquor bottles, reacts to Maggie.

MAGGIE
Well, he did like those drinks with the little umbrellas in them. But this is a little over the top.

REMBRANDT
Got to talk to that boy.

Maggie finds one of those little plastic paperweights that snobs inside. She looks at it.

MAGGIE
(reading it off)
Souvenir of lucky times in Las Vegas.

She puts the paperweight back in the case.

REMBRANDT

shopping for more right now.

MAGGIE
So where's Quinn and the timer?

REMBRANDT
Let's take a quick look in the shops on the street, then come back and wait for them in the bar.

She starts for the door.

MAGGIE
Sounds like a plan. As long as there's something to eat somewhere in it.

As they exit the room....

REMBRANDT
Right. I could use a burger, or some trail mix, or whatever they got this time in those little freebie bowls.

And they're out.

He sees Colin come up and turns on him, angry at another interruption in his routine.

GOMEZ
Look, we've got no rooms, we've got no suites, I haven't seen any of your friends, and no, you can't leave a message for them.

Colin thinks this over a moment, then....

COLIN Fine....

He turns away, heading for the bar. (NOTE: We need to bring Colin around toward the bar in this shot to match up with his seeing Quinn at the bar in Scene 33.)

Quinn's apprehension is growing. He looks up from his notes.

QUINN

Let me ask you something.

BARTENDER

Sure.

QUINN

Say you got separated from someone and you needed to find them in a hurry.

BARTENDER

You expecting someone?

QUINN

Some friends. We got split up and we've, uh, got a plane to catch.

A man is reading a newspaper. He lowers the paper. It seems to be COLIN. He's wearing a dark blue shirt and slacks, similar to our own Colin, but this Colin is wearing several gaudy gold chains around his neck, and he's puffing away on a long, black Sherman cigarillo. This is COLIN 2, our Colin's alternate on this world. He looks nervous as he surveys the scene in the lobby.

35 COLIN 2'S POINT OF VIEW - ANGLE ON LOBBY

35

Well-dressed folk coming and going. He doesn't see or recognize our Colin, who has passed behind him on the way to the bar. But he does see the two thugs following him, reacts to them, raising the newspaper to cover his face.

36 AT THE BAR

36

Quinn is talking to the Bartender and doesn't know that Colin is coming toward him.

37 WITH COLIN

37

As he's about to call out to Quinn, he's suddenly grabbed by the two thugs.

COLIN
Hey! What's going on?

Before he can say anything else, the larger of the two thugs locks a forearm around his neck, stifling his complaints. The two lift Colin off his feet and hustle him away.

REMBRANDT
There you are! We've been after you for the past hour.

Colin 2 panics. Don't know these guys. Must be more thugs. He's outta there.

MAGGIE
Wait, come back!

REMBRANDT
What spooked him?

MAGGIE
No clue.

They head off in pursuit.

43 EXT. STREET

43

Suddenly, from out of nowhere, a SPEEDING AMBULANCE. Colin 2 charges out in front of it, he spots it, tries to dodge it, too late! The ambulance sideswipes him, laying him out cold. Five bystanders rush up to record this event with camcorders.

Rembrandt and Maggie arrive on the scene and shove past the amateur news hounds. The paramedics have hustled out, opened the rear door of the ambulance and picked up Colin 2 to shove him inside.

REMBRANDT
Let us through! He's our friend!

The paramedics close the doors and climb back in.

MAGGIE
Hey, wait up!

REMBRANDT
He's with us!

But the ambulance roars off. The bystanders, seemingly happy with their footage, move off. Maggie is disgusted.

MAGGIE
What's the matter with you people?

REMBRANDT
Nothing that ten thousand dollars from America's Funniest Fatalities wouldn't solve.

No time for discussion. Rembrandt hails a cab, runs to it. Maggie follows.

REMBRANDT
(as they jump in)
Follow that ambulance!

And they are gone.

BARTENDER
Pretty much. Well...there's some educational stuff. Did you know you can cut your hair with a vacuum cleaner?

QUINN
Tell me more about this Lipschitz guy.

BARTENDER
You really have been out of the loop, haven't you?
(then)
Well, he made his name as a reporter for INN during the war with Guam, in which we kicked their butts, by the way. After the war, INN merged with TBC. Global bought TBC and merged with UniMax, who got folded into the Turnbull group, which got eaten up by General Comco, and then that guy everybody thought was the Unabomber bought the whole shebang and made Lipschitz his big star. Everybody watches him.

QUINN
So, how does one go about getting on the show?

But I am dressed.

MacArthur sighs, motions to "Maurice," who opens the limo door and starts to shove Colin out. (X)

49 INT. HOSPITAL ROOM - DAY 49

Colin 2 is sprawled out on the hospital bed, unconscious. He wears a hospital gown. Of course, a wall-mounted television is blaring away.

50 ON THE TV

50

is Lipschitz. It's another stand-up.

LIPSCHITZ
Coming up on our weekend wrap-up show -- after decades of discrimination, they're tired, they're angry, they're not gonna take it anymore. Yuppy wasp freedom fighters, on Lipschitz!

51 ANGLE ON ROOM

51

Rembrandt and Maggie appear in the doorway. Rembrandt is looking back down the hallway.

MAGGIE
Nice work, giving that nurse your tickets to the Super Bowl.

REMBRANDT
Of course they won't get her into the game on this world, but it got us on the floor.

Maggie grabs the clipboard off the end of the bed and quickly looks it over.

REMBRANDT
How is he?

(relieved)
No concussion. Nothing broken.
He's mildly sedated, but he'll be okay.

REMBRANDT
Thank God for that. We'd better get moving.

MAGGIE
Colin, wake up.

She notices the neck chains.

MAGGIE
Did he have these chains before?

REMBRANDT
Must have got 'em here. Farm boy always liked shiny things.

Colin stirs, opens his eyes. He doesn't recognize Remmy and Maggie...

MAGGIE
(to Colin 2)
We've got to get you out of here.

You sure there's no concussion?

MAGGIE
Get his clothes.
(to Colin 2)
Come on, now, Colin. We're friends.

Remmy goes to the closet, pulls out Colin 2's clothes and tosses them on the bed. Colin 2 becomes a little more coherent as he gets a good look at Maggie.

(flirting)
Just how good a friend of mine are you?

MAGGIE
Snap out of it, Colin. We've got to find Quinn and we don't know how much time until the sliding window.

COLIN 2
(plays along with it)
Sliding window? Right. Whatever works.

Rembrandt comes to the bed with Colin's shirt and pants.
Colin 2 sits up and takes the clothes.

(to Remmy)
Thanks, home.

Rembrandt reacts to that.

COLIN 2
(then to Maggie)
I'm still a little groggy, babe, want to help me on with these pants?

Maggie reacts to that, and we...

QUINN

Sex appeal?

QUINN

Look, I've battled androids, dragons, even dinosaurs...

No response.

QUINN

I've seen Elvis...

She stirs slightly. Quinn sees that he's on to something. Will she break?

QUINN

And I've met the female version of myself.

She picks up her pad and pen.

PRODUCER

Did you have sex with her?

54 INT. THE CHANDLER HOTEL - BAR/LOBBY - DAY

54

The space has been configured for this special ceremony: podium, a big table with a big book on it. Several dozen suited executives sit in folding chairs. The wedding march starts.

Ten men, in pin-striped suits and carrying briefcases, march down the aisle and move into formation, five on either side of the aisle. The audience of well-dressed men and women stand as the bride makes her entrance on the arm of her father.

Roxanne is wearing a well-tailored, white business suit, pill box hat with white veil. As they head down the aisle, the businessmen/ushers snap to attention and hoist up their briefcases, forming an "arch of honor" for the bride and her father to pass beneath.

When Roxanne and her father reach the big table, the music stops and the ushers lower their briefcases and the audience sits down.

54A ANGLE ON SIDE OF ROOM

54A

Colin and MacArthur enter and cross to the table. Colin is smiling and looking around, not sure what is going to happen.

54B AT THE TABLE

54B

A businessman goes to the table and opens the big book. He nods toward Roxanne, who moves to the book, picks up a pen and signs in several places. Then she returns to her father's side. The businessman turns to Colin, holding out the pen. Colin is unsure what to do. MacArthur nudges him and Colin steps forward to the book, takes the pen and signs where he is shown. Then the book is closed and Colin returns to stand by his "father." MacArthur steps forward to address the audience.

MacARTHUR

What we have witnessed today is the beginning of the end. The conflict is over. No longer will our efforts be hindered by destructive competition and ruinous price wars.

Colin looks a little confused. But MacArthur is well received by the audience. More APPLAUSE.

MacARTHUR

Now let us move forward as a single corporation. Remember our motto, farmers grow stuff, but we feed the masses.

More APPLAUSE.

MacARTHUR

(turns to Colin and Roxanne)

This merger is complete. I now pronounce you one husband, one wife, one family, one corporation.

Colin does a double-take -- "what did he say?"

More APPLAUSE.

MacArthur, proud papa, slaps Colin on the back.

MacARTHUR

Congratulations, son, you're married.

Off Colin's utter shock...

ANNOUNCER (V.O.)
Ladies and gentlemen, the paragon television, the most watched, admired and awarded host in the history of world wide communication. Here he is...Barry

Lipschitz, and it's Lipschitz Live.

Riotous applause as our host, Barry Lipschitz takes the stage. He flashes an expensive, toothy grin at the camera, then turns to his adoring audience.

LIPSCHITZ
Too kind...really...you're too kind.

The applause dies down and Lipschitz moves toward a camera which captures him in extreme closeup. Lipschitz goes into full smarm mode.

LIPSCHITZ
Friends...and I take that word very

LIPSCHITZ

Are they for real? If so, why are

(turns to stage)

Let's meet two men who might have some answers to those questions.

ADJUST ANGLE to reveal the stage. Quinn sits in one chair, and in the other, ARNOLD POTTS. Potts is a bit overweight and is stuffed into a Buck Rogers space outfit. He has a large satchel on the stage beside his chair. Lipschitz crosses to Potts.

LIPSCHITZ

First we have Arnold Potts.

Potts rises and gives a weird hand salute.

POTTS

Be self-reliant and multiply.

He sits down.

LIPSCHITZ

Thanks for that, Arnold. Folks,
Arnold's claim...and let me see if I've got it straight...is that he's not here at all.

POTTS

I'm not here at all.

LIPSCHITZ

He's a pan-galactic traveller who says he can project his image anywhere in the cosmos.

Potts smiles and nods knowingly. Lipschitz crosses to
Quinn.

Potts stifles a snorting laugh at this remark.

LIPSCHITZ
He travels between parallel dimensions.

QUINN
That's right, Barry.

POTTS
The man is an obvious phony.

LIPSCHITZ
Why do you say that, Mr. Potts?

POTTS
He's a headline grabber, in it for his fifteen minutes of fame. Look at him, he doesn't even have an outfit.

LIPSCHITZ
Interesting point. Mr. Mallory, you make these slides from one dimension to another in your street clothes?

QUINN
Yes.

POTTS
I've made calculations that prove conclusively that the G forces generated by a trans-dimensional traverse would cause the subject's eyes to explode.

He reaches into his satchel and comes up with some very strange eye goggles and puts them on.

POTTS
That's why I wear these.

QUINN
Well, Barry, it's like this...

He turns to the camera.

QUINN
Rembrandt, Maggie, Colin, if you somehow hear this, get down to the KKRP studios now! We slide in less than an hour! Less than one hour!

REMBRANDT
That's what he's doing. Leave it to the Q-Ball.

Maggie turns to Colin 2, who is now dressed.

COLIN 2
(re: the TV)
Friend of yours?

REMBRANDT
And of yours.

They start to hustle Colin 2 out of the room.

COLIN 2
Where are we going?

MAGGIE
Far, far away.

He snaps to.

COLIN 2
You mean out of the city?

REMBRANDT
At the very least.

COLIN 2
Lead on, baby cakes.

Rembrandt and Maggie each take an arm and lead Colin 2 out the door.

MAGGIE
Baby cakes?

And they are gone.

59A(X)

Colin and Roxanne enter. Colin still seems to be in a state of shock. He examines the wedding ring now on his hand, then turns to Roxanne.

COLIN

I don't know exactly how to tell you this. Especially considering that a woman's wedding day is supposed to be the happiest day of her life. It grieves me to spoil it for you in this fashion, but...

ROXANNE

Put a sock in it, Colin. Let's just get this over with.

Colin was not prepared for this kind of reaction. Nor was he prepared for Roxanne's disposition. She presses in on him, she's hot to trot, and during the following, she takes off her blouse. Colin is very nervous about her advances.

COLIN

I'm trying to tell you, I am not Colin. I mean, I am Colin. I am just not your Colin.

ROXANNE

That's the best you can do?

COLIN

Absolutely.

ROXANNE

Look, I don't want this marriage any more than you do. But we've known for years it was coming. Like it or not, the corporate dynasties continue through our bloodline. It's a curse of birth.

Now she's got her shirt off, down to bra and panties. She really moves in on Colin.

COLIN

That is just my point. I was not born here. I am from a parallel dimension.

ROXANNE

Have you been drinking again? I've warned you about that.

COLIN

I know it is hard to believe, but I am quite serious. My friends and I go from one parallel world to another. Your Colin must be my alternate on this world.

ROXANNE
Did you try this line on your

COLIN
My father is dead.

ROXANNE
I know you hate MacArthur, but really...

COLIN
I don't hate MacArthur. I don't even know him. Besides, he seems to be trying to do what is best for his family...and his son.

Roxanne is really starting to notice the "change" in Colin.

ROXANNE
He doesn't care about you. His sole focus has been to create the biggest corporate dynasty in the world.

COLIN
Indeed, what an incredible legacy to leave for one's children. My father tried to do the same.
Although, a two-room cabin, four cows and some chickens is not much of a dynasty.

Things are getting a little weird for Roxanne. But moving on...

ROXANNE
Fine, delude yourself. Someday the illiterate serfs will be at the gate and you'll finally understand what's going on here.

COLIN
It is too bad my counterpart can't fully appreciate the value of that effort. And the value of having a father who is still with him to share it.

Roxanne studies him closely.

COLIN
(snapping back)
But now to the matter at hand. I have to find my friends.

ROXANNE
Forget your friends. Call in the lawyers.

Quinn and Potts are seated side by side on a raised platform. Potts has a large satchel on the floor next to his chair. Lipschitz works freestyle with a hand-held mike, roaming the stage and down into the audience like Phil Donahue used to do. At the moment, Potts is on.

POTTS

Mr. Lipschitz, I was under the impression that I would be your only guest.

(re: Quinn)

This charlatan demeans the very concept of inter-dimensional voyaging.

LIPSCHITZ

What about that, Mr. Mallory? Are you a charlatan?

QUINN

The only reason I'm here is to be reunited with my companions so that we can move on to the next world.

POTTS
That's a timer.

The audience reacts. Then Quinn steps forward to camera.

QUINN

LIPSCHITZ'S VOICE
I think you've promoted this so-called 'slide' enough, Mr. Mallory. Let's give Mr. Potts a chance to tell his story.

Colin starts looking around for an escape route. As the POUNDING continues.

64 EXT. HOSPITAL - DAY

Rembrandt, Maggie and Colin 2 emerge and hit the streets of L.A. Colin 2 seems nervous, looking around as if he fears being followed. He lights up a smoke. Remy looks around for a cab.

REMBRANDT
Great, we're going to have to take another cab if we can find one.

COLIN 2
The Hilton runs airport shuttles every thirty minutes.

We'll get back to these nutbars in a minute, but first a news update from the Lipschitz Action desk.

Tape footage of Colin and Roxanne's wedding ceremony come up.

LIPSCHITZ'S VOICE
A new age in American corporate culture was born today when the heirs to two rival conglomerates were joined in matrimony today. Colin Mallory of Infinicorp and Roxanne Crane of Milleniamedia were merged in a ceremony at the Chandler Hotel.

Yeah, well, so it was some other lucky guy, your friend, or whatever.

REMBRANDT

How did you manage to get him to take your place?

Lipschitz turns to Quinn.

84 WIDER ANGLE

84

as Quinn starts to talk. Colin points to him.

COLIN
That's my brother. And I must get to him as soon as possible. Can you help me?

Roxanne looks at him a moment, then nods, takes his hand and they start out of the room. We linger a moment on the television.

QUINN
I don't think you can call what I do 'de-materializing.'

QUINN (CONT'D)

I don't change at all. I just jump through a vortex into a wormhole that connects with another world in another dimension.

LIPSCHITZ

And I'm sure everyone would like to see that.

QUINN

Well, maybe you will, wise guy.

85 INT. THE CHANDLER HOTEL - CORRIDOR - DAY

85

The Bridal Suite door swings open and Colin and Roxanne emerge. The two thugs are waiting in the hall, and Colin and Roxanne have a show for them. They play up the newlywed angle to the max as they lovingly nuzzle and tickle each other. MacArthur emerges from his suite at the same time.

MacARTHUR

Now this is more like the happy couple I know. But where are you off to?

Colin momentarily forgets himself.

COLIN

Station KKRK.

MacARTHUR

What on Earth for?

COLIN

(recovering)
To, ah, buy it.

Roxanne jumps in to assist.

ROXANNE

Ah, yes, we realized that there are still a lot of smaller independent stations that are not yet part of the empire. We thought we would buy KKRK as a wedding present to each other.

MacARTHUR

Excellent thinking. I can see I had you figured wrong, son. Why don't you take the limo. Do it in style.

Colin is getting into the intrigue now.

COLIN

And while we're at it, I thought we'd buy that channel that shows nothing but science fiction programming.

Roxanne drags Colin off, anxious to be out of there before MacArthur gets wise to the charade.

ROXANNE

Come along, dear.

And they are gone.

86 EXT. THE CHANDLER HOTEL - DAY

86

(LIPSCHITZ LIVE can still be seen on the big screen above the marquee.) Colin and Roxanne hop into the limo and speed away just as...

Rembrandt, Maggie and Colin 2's taxi pulls up. They jump out and storm the entrance to The Chandler.

87 INT. THE CHANDLER HOTEL - SUITE - DAY

87

MacArthur is stuffing some papers into a briefcase and putting away some personal effects when...

Rembrandt and Colin 2 burst in. Rembrandt immediately starts searching the rooms.

MacARTHUR

(to Colin 2)
What is going on here? Who is this person? Where is Roxanne? So help me, Colin, if this is another half-baked...

COLIN 2

Where are they?

MacARTHUR

Where are who?

COLIN 2

Roxanne and the impostor.

MacARTHUR

Impostor? What are you talking about?

Rembrandt returns from the bedroom.

REMBRANDT

They're not here.

Maggie enters.

REMBRANDT

Colin must have gotten the message.

MAGGIE

Great, looks like he's going to make the slide. The question is, will we?

REMBRANDT

(to Colin 2)

We need a car, now.

COLIN 2

I'm taking the limo, Dad.

MacARTHUR

I already gave you the limo so you could go buy a television station.

COLIN 2

That wasn't me.

MacARTHUR

I don't understand.

REMBRANDT

It was your Colin's exact duplicate.

MAGGIE

It was our Colin actually, and we want him back.

COLIN 2

And I want Roxanne back. And the money, of course.

MacArthur shakes his head, trying to absorb all this. Then:

REMBRANDT

We can take a cab.

Wait, aren't you...? The big

COLIN
That's us. Colin Mallory,

MacArthur notices.

Somehow I always thought that when I got married, it would be... well...more romantic.

Would you just let us in. I can explain everything. Well, almost everything.

Rembrandt and Maggie come forward with an idea.

MAGGIE
If you really want a show, why not add another Colin Mallory?

REMBRANDT
This is Colin Mallory's identical twin, kidnapped as a baby and raised by dolphins.

This clicks with the Producer, who nods to the guard, who steps aside, and our people enter the station.

Lipschitz working on Quinn.

LIPSCHITZ
So you moved an entire population from one world to another...

QUINN
Not exactly, you see...

POTTS
(interrupting)
Now that would be going against the Prime Directive. You can't travel to these worlds and interfere with their cultures.

QUINN
I don't have a Prime Directive.
That must be some other universe.

95 ANGLE IN WINGS OF STAGE

95

Colin and Roxanne have made it to the side of the stage.
They pause for a moment. Colin turns to Roxanne.

COLIN
Thank you for believing me and helping me.

She gives him a hug.

ROXANNE
I really do wish you were my

COLIN
Me too...in a way. I've got to go.

POTTS

Oh, I'll be moving on shortly.

He reaches into his satchel, produces a bizarre helmet and starts to strap it on his head.

LIPSCHITZ

Oh, so you're going to slide away too, Mr. Potts.

POTTS

I prefer the term astral projection.

LIPSCHITZ

Whatever.

Quinn rises and faces camera.

QUINN

Folks, it's almost time for me to go, and it looks like I'll be going alone. I'd just like to say one last thing to my friends and my brother...

COLIN'S VOICE

I'm coming with you, bro.

ADJUST ANGLE to show that Colin has come on stage and crosses to Quinn. Quinn is elated and gives his brother a big hug. Lipschitz and his audience are stunned.

LIPSCHITZ

What's this? Another Slider?

Potts sees the show getting away from him. He jumps up.

POTTS

Counting down from ten...

Lipschitz, Colin and Quinn ignore him.

97 ANOTHER ANGLE ON THE BACK OF THE AUDIENCE SECTION

REMBRANDT

Don't forget us, Q-Ball.

100 ON STAGE 100
Lipschitz is trying to regain control of his show. The audience is in an uproar.

LIPSCHITZ
What have we got here? Some kind of weirdo Slider reunion?

POTTS
Six...five...four

No one is paying any attention to Potts. He's now putting on some kind of flak jacket.

101 ANGLE ON COLIN 2 101
He sees Roxanne and starts toward her.

102 ROXANNE 102
comes out of the wings, rushing to Colin 2.

104 QUINN AND COLIN 104
Quinn double-takes between his Colin and Colin 2.

COLIN
It's a long story, and I may be married.

Quinn reacts to that, then looks down at the timer.

105 THE TIMER 105

106 QUINN 106
raises the timer to activate it.

POTTS

08D BACK IN STUDIO 108D
The audience goes wild as Quinn, Colin, Maggie and Rembrandt LEAP INTO THE VORTEX. The VORTEX then ZAPS SHUT, leaving a stunned Lipschitz and Potts standing there. It only takes Lipschitz a moment to collect himself and make this part of the show.

LIPSCHITZ
They said it couldn't happen. But it did. Trans dimensional

109 ANGLE ON COLIN 2 AND ROXANNE 109

COLIN 2
There was no consummation. Was there?

Roxanne has wandered away from them a little, toward the stage. Colin 2 follows her. Lipschitz picks them up, realizing that the show's not over. He holds his mike toward Roxanne as she moves almost reverently toward the place where the vortex opened.

COLIN 2
You didn't do anything with that guy, did you, Roxanne?

She shakes her head "no."

COLIN 2
Then, can't we get married?

ROXANNE
I hope so.

Roxanne has to be satisfied with this Colin. She smiles at him and they embrace. The audience applauds.

Lipschitz steps toward the audience.

LIPSCHITZ
But is this really the happy ending? Stay tuned, folks, because this young lady may be married to an alien in another dimension.

110 CLOSE ON LIPSCHITZ

we looking at pan-galactic bigamy?
What if the other guy comes back?

Audience cheers.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL FOR PLAYBACK DURING INDICATED SCENES

SCENE 6

As Colin rounds a corner and sees the homeless people and their television. Lipschitz is doing a straight pitch to camera.

LIPSCHITZ
This portion of Lipschitz Live is brought to you by Body Slam Malt Liquor. For that special occasion or for no reason at all, Body Slam will take you down. That's Body Slam Malt Liquor. It's not just for breakfast anymore.

For end of scene when Colin is pelted with garbage and chased away:

LIPSCHITZ
We're not afraid to shine the glaring flashlight beam of truth into the darkest corners of society. Only here will you learn the truth about what people in America are doing and thinking, with occasional features about what they're wearing. Later today, our special fashion correspondent, Howie Mandel, will bring a special report from the Akron International Fashion Show. You won't believe what they're wearing this year.

SCENE 11

Lipschitz is holding up a card with some kind of graph on it.

LIPSCHITZ
This chart shows the increase in the number of metal implants found in people heads. Proof of alien abduction or dental malpractice, you be the judge.

SCENE 12

Lipschitz is waving a newspaper at the audience.

LIPSCHITZ

They've found another Batboy on Long Island. Right now the cops have him under wraps, but we've been in touch with his agent, and if and when Batboy makes a public appearance, we'll have it here on Lipschitz Live. Also, a new formula has been found for converting lead into gold. And we'll be taking a look at a great new diet.

SCENE 13

Lipschitz still waving the newspaper. He stops to read an item.

LIPSCHITZ

It says here 'Feral Child Found in Central Park. Raised by a family of possums.' The issue, I contend, is not the feral boy. It's whether we call them possums or opossums. We'll have language experts on right after the news and get to the bottom of this controversy.

SCENE 14

A silent bit. Lipschitz observes as a Ron Popeil-like guest demonstrates a strange machine that apparently presses your pants while you wear them. He turns on the switch and the thing attacks him. As he thrashes in pain, PAs rush on stage and try to wrestle the thing off him.

SCENE 15

Lipschitz alone on camera.

LIPSCHITZ

Coming up, an exclusive Lipschitz Live report from the first super model in space.

SCENE 17

On Gomez's TV set at the front desk. Lipschitz is interviewing a blonde woman who holds a pug dog. The dog wears an outfit that matches the blonde's and also wears a blonde wig.

LIPSCHITZ

Our next guest has a pug that has predicted the next big L.A. earthquake and the results of next year's Rose Bowl. First off, Stephanie, why the wig on the dog?

CONTINUED

STEPHANIE
It's not a wig.

LIPSCHITZ
Well, let's get right to the predictions, shall we? What do you have to tell us?

He holds the mike to the pug, who may or may not do anything.

SCENE 18

Lipschitz continuing the interview with Stephanie and her pug.

(Naked Senator bit, which is in script)

Then, under remainder of scene:

LIPSCHITZ
Our Lipschitz Live undercover camera team goes eye-spying on board an Alaskan fishing trawler. But these burly net-haulers are in touch with their feminine side. Come on board the real Love Boat. Next Lipschitz Live. We're going to be meeting one of these cross-dressing fisherman in just a few minutes. His name is Duane and he's a size twenty-four.

P.A. hands him some copy.

LIPSCHITZ
This just in. In Los Angeles, the Bowling Ball Freeway Maniac strikes again. This time, the scene was the Richard Nixon Freeway in Yorba Linda. Police say the man released a half dozen bowling balls off the back of a flatbed truck right into rush hour traffic.

SCENE 30-41

Lipschitz is interviewing three men on stage.

LIPSCHITZ
Well, Ray, your buddy, Leo there, says it wasn't really a friendly slap on the butt during a touch football game. It was something more.

"Ray" suddenly lunges at Leo and a fight breaks out. This ad-lib fight continues for a while as the Lipschitz P.A. "bouncers" join in. Lipschitz maybe does a play-by-play, not trying to break up the fight.

SCENE 42

Lipschitz is interviewing a man wearing a dress.

LIPSCHITZ
As I promised, folks, here is one of those hard-working fisherman from the trawler in Alaska. So, Duane, do all the guys wear dresses now?

DUANE
Pretty much. Unless we get into heavy seas. Then we usually put on some rubber boots and maybe a stylish rain hat.

SCENE 46

Lipschitz working the camera.

LIPSCHITZ
Then, later tonight we'll be taking your phone calls on the World's Largest Telephone.

INSERT - SHOT OF THAT BIG TELEPHONE

by Denver Street.

BACK TO LIPSCHITZ

working the audience.

LIPSCHITZ
On our feature segment tonight, when we focus on aliens and out of body travelers, we'll be meeting Arnold Potts. Some of you may have seen him earlier this year when he tried to make a live chicken go from one cage to another without passing through the space in between. The chicken didn't make it, but Arnold will be back with us.

SCENE 51

Lipschitz reading from copy.

LIPSCHITZ
We're going to go live to the Chandler Hotel a little later to bring you coverage of the consummation of the big merger that went down today between Millimedia and Infinicorp. MacArthur Mallory himself may make an appearance. The merger will create the largest communications' company on the planet.

(another piece of copy)
New photos are in of that Mother Teresa likeness on a sugar beet in Bayonne, New Jersey.

SCENE 58

Lipschitz still doing the news.

LIPSCHITZ
A ten-year-old Webeloe scout in Ashland, Kentucky was revealed today to be a clone of Adolph Hitler. The boy claims to have no political aspirations. He says he just wants to earn his Citizenship Merit Badge and be left alone.

SCENE 61

Quinn and Potts on stage. Lipschitz talking to the audience.

LIPSCHITZ
Hey, we put a man on the moon, an unmanned land rover on Mars and a lot of deep space probes to the galaxy. What's so weird about going from one world to another. I think one or maybe both of these guys have really done it.

SCENE 64

Quinn and Potts ad-lib an argument for the beginning of this scene.

SCENE 86
